DETAILED ACTION

Applicant has cancelled claims 1-9 and added new claim 10 in the preliminary amendment dated 2/9/04. Pending claim 10 has been examined below.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 10 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. 6,253,515. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other.

Regarding claim 10, '515 (claim 1) claims a concrete wall system mounted on a supporting wall having V joints where the apex is located at back and a flexible sealant in the V.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 3,280,525 to Crowley in view of U.S Patent No. 4,047,357 to Mulholland et al.

Regarding claim 10, Crowley discloses a concrete panel system mounted to a support wall (17) used as a tank, the concrete panels having a bevel on the edges which form a V shape (fig. 1: adjacent 16) where a peak of the V is at the back of the panel. Crowley discloses the panels as having a slight curve and a non flexible sealant in the V. Mulholland discloses concrete rectangular edge to edge panels (fig. 1) having a rubber gasket there between (column 4, lines 27-33) to increase the water resistance. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Crowley by using a rubber gasket, as disclosed by Mulholland, in order to increase the water resistance of the tank. It would also have been obvious to use rectangular shaped panels, as disclosed by Mulholland and also disclosed in typical building construction throughout, as a preference of design in order to fit the tank in particular areas where a circular tank may not fit, since tanks are often made in rectangular shapes.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

The cited patents listed on the included form PTO-892 further show the state of the art with respect to concrete panels in general.
